Lovely christmas story Von Petra Pfaffenberger This is a Shortstory about a desperate mom of a 4 year old girl and a baby boy. Noel is going home to the Ranch of her grandparents, when a Blizzard is hitting. She seeks shelter in a cafe and gets there a Job as a waitress. Dan, the owner of the cafe, rents her the flat above the cafe. For the time she is working in the cafe, her adorable children can be near their mother. Dan has a soft spot for losts and strays, so he helps Noel with her children and the money for her old truck.Noel has promised her children and herself to be at her Ranchhome on Christmas Eve. Although she and Dan get more and more involved. Dan seems to be the man she sought all of her life. He loves her children and has a nice cafe which would bring enough money for living.Now she has to decide if she should keep the promise to her daughter or give living with Dan at the cafe a chance.Although I don't like Shortstories, this one I loved. Of course there could be more details about the lives of Noel and Dan. And of course I would have liked to get more involved with them and their blooming love. But the story has all ingredients for an unforgettable Christmas Story with a happy end.

KurzbeschreibungWidow Noel Martin never breaks promises, and she promised her kids they'd have Christmas at her childhood home in Connecticut. But driving across country takes money. Noel is broke when a snowstorm blows them into a tiny Minnesota cafe owned by a man who can change her mind. She accepts his offer of a job. Despite her attraction to him, she makes it clear she is only temporary help.Dan Longstreet isn't adopting any more strays, but he needs a waitress. Dan works so hard to make his cafe a success, he doesn't have time for love. Though Noel's slender blonde beauty stuns him and her two adorable children tug at his heart, he denies how they threaten to change his life.When tragedy strikes, their new-found love is the first victim. Noel can't stay and Dan can't leave. Will their journey be the gift that reunites them?KurzbeschreibungWidow Noel Martin never breaks promises, and she promised her kids they'd have Christmas at her childhood home in Connecticut.
