WorthwileVon AnneKiss My NameI found this great book by purpose and I really loved it.I became quite addicted to the story and finished it last night. I'm looking forward to read other books written by this author.

Kurzbeschreibung On the eve of Simon Strong's wedding day, a young woman, Flo, armed with a double-barrelled shotgun, arrives at his front door. She is there to avenge the mistreatment of her best friend, Zara. Simon begs for mercy, claiming he has no knowledge of anyone called Zara. What has happened to Zara to create such an extreme reaction from her best friend? Kiss My Name follows the lives of several characters from childhood in the 1980s to adult life in the twenty-first century. As several of them gather in Blackpool, for a Stag Do and a Hen Do, mayhem ensues. Has Simon cheated on his wife to be and will he make it to the church at all? Kurzbeschreibung On the eve of Simon Strong's wedding day, a young woman, Flo, armed with a double-barrelled shotgun, arrives at his front door. He studied Economics at Manchester Metropolitan University, graduating in 1992. On graduation, he worked in a record shop for eighteen months to fund a backpacking trip around the world. Since returning from his travels, his working life has been in the mortgage industry, working for Alliance Leicester, Yorkshire Building Society and Birmingham Midshires. During this period, he has run five marathons, three in London and one each in Liverpool and New York. His first London Marathon was run in a fancy dress house where he was narrowly beaten by an apple, a banana and a pear. In 2006, he wrote a five-minute monologue for BBC Radio Five Live entitled, "I Hate Football", which was performed by Johnny Vegas. It first aired in June 2006 and was repeated on a Christmas Day special. 'Kiss My Name' is his second novel, following on from the bestselling 'Forever Is Over' and is now available to buy in Ebook and paperback formats. Calvin Wade is married to Alison and has two sons, Bradley and Joel.
