Too long with nothings, stupid acting people, boringVon -KundeThis could be a very interesting story. But the author preferred to tell too much details which are definitely boring.This woman Emma made me mad. Too proud to take money from her wealthy husband to rise her little son properly. So the little guy has to sleep on the floor and not really healthy food. I couldn't find any good things in this character.The husband is acting strange as well. He wants his wife but is still meeting another awfull woman. All this makes not much sense for me.Happy, that I had'nt to pay for this stuff0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Mega!Von LauSehr tolle Geschichte um eine allein erziehende Mama und ihren Stiefbruder.Wem diese Konstellation gefllt, dem ist mit diesem Buch Lesefreude garantiert!Es ist von allem was dabei.Es endet mit einem kleinen Cliffhanger, aber die meisten Fragen werden beantwortet!Gerne wieder!

She is married with four beautiful children who are all now making their own way in the world. She lives in the North Island of New Zealand between the Hakarimata Ranges and the Waikato River with a mad cat and often a few crazy horses. She loves to ride but unfortunately keeps falling off and breaking bones so has gone back to road running instead. She cant be seen pacing the streets of Ngaruawahia because she runs in the dark, convinced people will laugh. Often accompanied by one of her characters complaining about something, the author appears to have mental problems as she frequently answers back, which is another good reason for running under cover of darkness.
