KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. heartwarming and entertainingVon Hoener, BirgitAlice owns the oldest bookstore in a Southern small town, several cats, lives for her books and to maintain the history of the town and of being Creole, and hates all things technical.

Paul, self-made billionaire, developing computer games and lots of other technical items, and born in the same little town, but on the "wrong" side, comes back to build a new Gaming Shop/Centre right in the old part of his old hometown. Paul also has a secret alias, the owner of a website offering e-versions of old and nearly forgotten books. It is with his alias that Alice gets into contact first before meeting Paul in person, who happens to lease the free apartment in Alice's house, over the bookstore, for the time he and his friend and business partner Andy spend in town. A slowly developing love story (and slow is not meant negatively here), technic geek meets old fashioned bookstore owner - is there any chance for the two or are the differences and opposites between them too big? The way this story is told, the misunderstandings between the two characters, all developing in a slow pace - it was just a lovely read. Fairly long for an e-book but I would definitely not complain. This was like a mixture between Romeo and Juliet and You've Got Mail, and up until the end I kept worrying that there would not be a happy ending. Add to that all the quotations from poems by Browning, Pope and others, and you end up with a lovely entertaining book. This seems to be the first in a series, so I will definitely check out more from this author.

Kurzbeschreibung Alice Augustine runs the oldest bookstore in the historic district of Natchitoches and believes technology is the root of most problems. If only more people would turn off the TV and shut down the computer, the world wouldn't be in the mess it's in. She wishes she could get the teens she loves to step away from the screens and hold on to their Creole culture. The only person who seems to understand her passion for classic literature is the mysterious website owner, Browning Wordsworth Keats. Paul Olivier comes back to his home town determined to show the people of Cane River that he's not the poor, nerdy kid he once was. He's made a fortune designing video games and opening a giant electronics store right in the snooty historic district will be the crowning glory of his career. Unfortunately, one bookish anti-tech fanatic has decided to do everything she can to keep that from happening. Even worse, she doesn't know that in cyber space, they're kindred spirits. Alice and Paul clash from the start, but nothing is ever quite as it seems. When secrets are revealed, will there be a second chance- for both of them? A romance that brings the humor of You've Got Mail and the deep friendships of 84, Charring Cross Road, this romance will touch the classic literature lover in everyone. A clean Christian inspirational romance, approximately 336 pages and includes recipes! The Pepper in the Gumbo, Cane River Romance Book One (October 2014) These Sheltering Walls, Cane River Romance Book Two (May 2015) Only Through Love, Cane River Romance Book Three (July 2015) A Star to Steer By, Cane River Romance Book Four (October 2015) Kurzbeschreibung Alice Augustine runs the oldest bookstore in the historic district of Natchitoches and believes technology is the root of most problems.
