KurzbeschreibungAn M/M Romance The year is 1927 and Arthur is a young, English gentleman leading an easy and privileged life. His world might seem perfect and worry free, except for a secret which torments him. He has never told anyone that he harbours homosexual desires, fearing that a confession would lead only to anger, ridicule and disgust from those around him. His best friend and housemate, Charles, is the person that Arthur most wants to tell his secret to and also the one he is most afraid to tell, for he also wants to tell him that he is in love with him. Upon a weekend visit to Charles' family home, the two young men explore part of the estate that had been out of bounds to them since their childhood. There, Arthur finds himself lost in a terrifying yet enchanting place, strange and magical. Sculptures come to life and vines free themselves from the walls to hunt down their prey. Yet despite Arthurs fear, he finds himself seduced by flirtatious statues and giving into his desires, finally feeling free to be himself. But how will Charles react to discovering his best friends secret, and what secrets is Charles hiding from
